SUBJECT: Senate Plan for Federal Retirement System

1. Attached hereto is Senator Ted Stevens' (R., AK) draft proposal for a Supplemental Retirement Plan for all Federal Employees hired after 31 December 1983. (Senator Stevens will continue to chair the Post Office and Civil Service Subcommittee of the Governmental Affairs Committee). Employees who were on the government rolls prior to 1984 and covered by the current civil service retirement system would have the option of transferring into the Stevens plan with credit for service under the old system.

2. This proposal is being reviewed by the Administration and selected Federal employee unions. So far, reactions have been favorable with one exception: the Administration is highly critical of the "401 K Plan" because of the cost to the government. The contributions ($2 from government for every $1 contributed by employee up to 4 percent of employee basic pay) would be paid out immediately, rather than only when benefits are paid out. Other concerns include: Who would appoint/approve/control the group that manages the fund; how do you deal with the potential for market manipulation, or bad investments; how do you make investment decisions? These and other issues will be discussed during the next several weeks and modifications to the draft plan will be made before it is introduced.

3. Senator Stevens, who plans to try again for the leadership position in 1986, wants the success of having his proposal enacted. He plans to introduce legislation in January, hold several hearings through February, have markup and vote the bill out of Subcommittee/Committee in Spring, and to bring it to the floor for debate and Senate approval next Summer. All of my Senate contacts are saying confidentially that this will happen.

4. Senator Stevens wants one retirement system for all Federal employees. He is opposed to separate plans for special retirement classes, including employees of the CIA. Stevens wants to include all groups which have early out provisions (CIA, law enforcement, park police, Secret Service, air traffic-controllers and Foreign Service Officers) under a section for "all special retirement classes." For CIA, he would include a provision whereby the Agency would administer its own program (because of cover considerations). To date, only the law enforcement people and CIA (the undersigned) are in contact with Stevens' staff.

5. Senator Stevens believes that these "special retirement classes" should retain a relative early out advantage; as the age for the rest of the Federal workforce is raised, the retirement age for the early out groups will be raised.

6. Senator Stevens' principal aide on retirement (James Cowan, Subcommittee Chief Counsel) advises that the CIA should take a position, work it out with the SSCI, and quietly at the staff level, propose the CIA position to the Government Affairs Committee. A less desirable method for CIA to get coverage is through the amendment process which would lead to floor discussion. (Note: We are talking about CIA employees who are hired after 31 December 1983 and who would have been candidates for CIARDS. Stevens now is not looking at changes to any existing retirement systems, including Civil Service and CIARDS.)

7. The retirement options that CIA managers are currently considering have not been disclosed to Senate or House Staffers. It is quite clear, however, that the Senate staffers who are working the retirement issue are predisposed against a CIA proposal that would differ markedly from the retirement system being considered for other Federal employees, and against a CIA system that would cover all CIA employees.

8. Insofar as the House position on this "separate versus equal" issue, it is too soon to say. The Post Office and Civil Service Committee is moving much more slowly than the Senate and has not made detailed decisions on design or participation. The House, unlike the Senate, is looking at the entire package of Federal employee entitlements, including pay and health insurance, and is expected to propose a retirement package that will be viewed by employees as relatively very generous.

9. The Administration is expected to push for an austere supplemental retirement package for employees hired after 1 January 1984, and for changes in the current Civil Service Retirement System. Few details are known regarding the Administration's plans for the supplemental package. Insofar as changes to the current system, we have been hearing about them for three years:

- Change high 3 to high 5
- Increase employee contributions from 7 to 9 percent
- Adjust (or freeze) COLA
- Raise minimum retirement age from 55 to 62 or 65

10. The Senate and House would oppose all changes to the existing Civil Service system if it is treated as a discrete issue; support is more likely, however, if cuts in Civil Service entitlements are included in a larger deficit-cutting package. For example if the Social Security COLA is cut or frozen, it is highly likely that the COLA for Civil Service retirees will be modified.

11. In addition to Senator Stevens, the following Senators likely will influence retirement legislation:

Thomas F. Eagleton (D., MO)
Charles McC Mathias (R., MD)
Dave Durenberger (R., MN)
Lawton Chiles (D., FL)

Developments in the House will be reported in early January.
